ABOUT ME

After working in restaurant management for the past 7+ years, I've decided to make a career change into the world of technology. I'm currently learning to code online via Codecademy pursuing a career path as a full stack developer. I believe that my educational background in engineering, years of leadership experience in a fast paced environment along with my problem solving skills and attention to detail will give me an advantage as I transition into this new career path. I'm very excited for this new venture and to overcome any challenges that may lie ahead as I embark on this journey.
